

EdCo Collaborates 12/2

Director, Greg O'Loughlin
greg@educatorscooperative.com

Program Director, Amy Nyststrand
amy@educatorscooperative.com

The Null Curriculum with Lizzie Ammerman

You have to give yourself grace, and that action will give my students the courage to do that for themselves."

"Everybody has a thing in their head that says mean things to them, and if you figure out what yours is you have this really powerful tool to stop whatever it is."

"The identity says, 'They became little cheerleaders for each other.'"

"The thing about it is the kid looks at the kid that seems perfect and successful and thinks, 'you think that too.'"

"It's like a little therapy session for me every time I do it."

"It's important to give kids the experience with critical feedback that feels safe and constructive."

Sydney Britt, smbritt4@gmail.com

"The way we speak to ourselves, we model that." is your own mind."

"You have to create such an intense atmosphere of trust."

BOOK:
Alma and How She Got Her Name

People of Color CONFERENCE

BOOK:
The Day You Begin

BOOK: Ish

Natalie Sessoms, natalie@educatorscooperative.org

Nita Smith, nita.smith@mnps.org

Lizzie Ammerman, eammerman@email.usn.org

Amanda Banik, amanda@educatorscooperative.org

Coming Up!

11/30- Collaborate: Break to Break: Making the Most of the Weeks Between Supporting Advanced Students

12/1- Collaborate: Differentiating Virtually: Supporting Advanced Students

12/2 - Cultivates: The Null Curriculum with Lizzie Ammerman

12/3- Cultivates: Writing Fiction Workshop with Gabriela Gonzales from Southern Word

12/4 - #WinOfTheWeek:

Read our Blog • Sign up for our Newsletter • Listen to our Podcast

@educators_cooperative

@TheEducatorsCooperative

@Ed_Cooperative

